

Fall Travel Trips & Tips

Fall 2005

In this issue:

- Fall Foliage Scenic Drives in New England
- Get Ready Fast for Fall Leaf Viewing Trips
- Call for suggestions: Podcasts!
- Server Upgrades
- Useful Websites

"Hot Website... for a getaway", Woman's World magazine, October 18, 2005

Although summer is the most popular season for road trips, we at eTravelogue think that autumn is actually the best time. The fall foliage, Indian summer and the cooler air that comes in later in the season, and the fact that less people are on the roads, make for a more enjoyable getaway. When you add in the fact that a good portion of the seasonal attractions are still open (and the crowds are smaller), you'd be missing out on quite a bit by not heading out this autumn. Of course, you've got the help of eTravelogue.com in planning your trip!

Fall Foliage Scenic Drives in New England

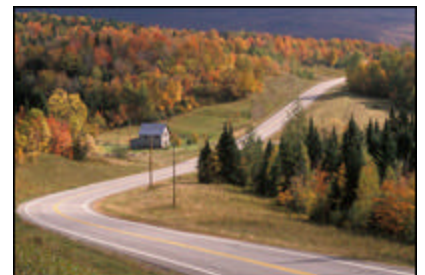

Fall foliage in New England really begins in August. The shortening daylight hours trigger the deciduous trees to begin the process of shedding their leaves. It happens all around North America, and all around the world. But in New England it's special.

Click here to read the rest of this article.

Get Ready Fast For Fall Leaf Viewing Trips

Whether it's a driving tour, a cruise or a bus, leaf viewing is a great way to spend a fall vacation. It's also big tour business and there are many options. As you dream of that hot apple cider on a crisp afternoon do a quick...

Click here to read the rest of this article.

Call for Suggestions: Podcasts!

eTravelogue needs your help,

We're looking for a few good attractions for our upcoming podcast feature, and we want your help. Do you know of a hidden gem of an attraction? How about a lesser known National Park that you think is worth a visit? Got a Mystery Spot in your town? Or an almost forgotten historical site that you think deserves more attention? Then tell us about it! Send your suggestions to podcasts@eTravelogue.com

You might be asking, what the heck a Podcast? Basically a Podcast an audio segment that you can either listen to on a website, or choose to download to your MP3 player or iPod. You can use free software such as iPodder to subscribe to the Podcast. As new "issues" of the Podcast are released, the software automatically downloads them to your MP3 player, allowing you to listen in the car, the gym, on the train, whenever.

You'll be able to get great trip ideas from your fellow road trippers, and help promote your favorite attractions! Again, the address to send your suggestions to is podcast@eTravelogue.com. We're looking forward to hearing from you.

Website Upgrades in Progress

You may have noticed the road work notice on our home page. Well, that notice is there because we've been working on a major upgrade to our website to better service our users. Due to the incredible popularity of the site and amount of media attention we've gotten since our launch in July, this upgrade comes a lot sooner than we anticipated. When it's complete, our trip planning functions will be faster and we'll be able to handle many more of your itineraries.

We're planning on having the upgrade complete within the next few weeks. We appreciate your patience with us while we finish this work.

Useful Websites

In our ongoing quest to find useful websites for road trippers, we have a few you might find interesting

There's something about autumn in New England. It doesn't really matter where you're from, it just feels like home. Well, if you happen to be visiting New England this fall, be sure to check out a corn maze.

Corn mazes and other Autumn family fun across the country.

I-95 is one of the most heavily traveled arteries in the country. We've come across this great site chock full of exit information, rest area info, and other useful tidbits.

The I-95 Exit Information Guide

I-75 Exit Information Guide, if that better suits your needs.

And finally, for the less-well-traveled of us...

Top 10 Travel Tips for Doofuses

Happy road tripping!

More information on any of the topics listed here can be found at eTravelogue.com - America's Online Road Trip Planner

Patent Pending

Freebies * Business Services * Policies * Sitemap * Contact Us
©2007 Internet Publications Corp.